“ I can't begin to imagine what you guys must be going through. Parents aren't suppose to outlive their children. You have been on my mind day and night since I heard of this terrible accident. I have been praying for each of you. I know as a Christian family you are putting your trust in God and he is the only one to help you through this. Rejoice in the fact that one day you will see Adam again but until then think often of the wonderful memories you made with him. He is spending time with God and walking the Streets of Gold. God will continue daily to put his loving, comforting arms around you. Praying for you often.,
