“ Losing a loved one is never ever easy, but knowing that the spirit is alive in a place where pain is no more, tears are wiped away and sickness does not dwell, gives us some comfort that our loved one has found peace, she no longer has to bare the troubles of this world. Though absent from the body, she will be forever in your hearts and the memories she left you will become your peace here on earth. The pain and grief will linger, tears will come and go, but with time you will be able to smile one day and find comfort in the years God gave you together. My thoughts, prayers and love are with you all.

Sincerely,

Angel Lee
