“ My precious James was such a huge part of my childhood. He was like the best 'big brother' I could have had. I enjoyed listening to him play the piano. He taught me how to dance. He was the best cook and I would always seem to hang around till supper time when I could. Then he met his precious, devoted wife, Pam, who made his life complete. Together they made their home in Harrisville where he spent his final years. It's a shame that I haven't seen James in years; but, I will always have a special place in my heart for him.
